WE, THE CLASS OF 1991,

Rosemary Laughlin

Rosemary Laughlin greeted most of us our subfreshman year with Impact, Black Boy and sentence conjugations. She astounded us with her Latin and implored us to remember when "Buzz Time" was over. When we were juniors, she welcomed us all back, traumatized as we were from the horrors of U.S. History, Physics, and Pre-Calculus. She entertained us with her Olde English and her ability to recite the entire Declaration of Independence in one breath — as well as her conversations with the VCR and video camera when they wouldn't cooperate with her (which was almost every time!) We filled out multiple-choice vocabulary tests, rattled off old radio theatre skits, and presented John Milton's Paradise Lost, as Finees wooed her with his pronunciation of "Galapagos."

Mrs. Laughlin's class was a favorite even to those who previously had thought they were strictly math/science people. But her teaching didn't end with her in-class enthusiasm and love of the English language. She was always there to talk, encourage and help — be it involving English or not. This is our chance to thank her for not only being such a wonderful teacher, but also for writing all of our college recommendations! Mrs. Laughlin is an unforgettable part of Uni, and definitely one of the best parts. We hope that she'll continue to be such an inspiration to English classes long after we are gone!

DEDICATE THIS YEARBOOK TO

Driving in from Sidney every day to work long hours as a secretary at Uni might not sound like your cup of tea, but that's what Barb Aschenbrenner does, and we are all the better for it. Her official title may be "Receptionist," but in her years at Uni she's done just about everything but teach a class, and she could probably even do that if she ever needed to. Some may know Barb only as the person in charge of the dreaded attendance sheets, but those who have ever asked for or needed her help know otherwise. Need paper, tape, markers or scissors? Forget how to use the copier or the ditto machine? Have to get a note or assignment to a teacher? Need to send a mailing to 280 parents? No problem. . . just ask Barb.

Always cheerful and always willing to help, Barb's tireless efforts have been invaluable to faculty and students alike. We'd like to take this opportunity to extend our appreciation and gratitude to Barb, for, although we recognize the work of Messrs. Crames and Epperson, we think we know who really runs the school.

UNIVERSITY H.S. LIBRARY

It's the students' job to keep Uni lively, and this year we certainly lived up to the challenge. The Euchre Craze dominated the lounge along with loads of new vinyl furniture. Students and teachers gossiped about controversies ranging from racism, handprint problems and the leadership of the administration to the mutilation of the phone and the disappearance of microwaves and Walkmans.

We enjoyed plays, picnics and parties with new and old friends, and visits by students from the Soviet Union, France, Tanzania and Finland made us all a little more culturally aware. Hopes, fears and opinions were expressed on the War in the Gulf, and in the midst of all the commotion, sanity was habitually lost in huge lounge pillow fights and in knowing that the Mac ate New York.

ORIENTATION PICNIC

Ahhh. . .the Orientation Picnic. A celebration of good food and great friends. It's held early in the year to let subfreshmen and other newcomers get a real feel for what Uni's social life is all about. We hope the shock isn't too great.

DANCES

Dances in 90-91 were totally screamin'!! Underclassmen and upperclassmen alike got down to the awesome music played by Sang, Jon, Eddie and Arah. Overall, most dances were smiles, laughs and love with lots of loud noise in between.

Whoa! Is this the earthquake?

There were, of course, some close dancers.

WINTER PARTY

The annual winter party was packed with non-offensive fun-filled gifts and lots of laughs. The Madrigals raised the usual holiday spirit, followed by a teacher-studded jazzy rendition of "Jingle Bell Rock." No party can be complete without treats, so parents supplied sweets to satisfy the holiday tooths of the students.

YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU

One of this year's fall shows was You Can't Take It With You. In it, Amy and Noah taught us ballet, Kate and Joe fell in love, Robin typed plays, Jamie tended to his snakes, Andrew and Carl blew up the house, Rachel and Dave came to dinner and the IRS got mad. Somehow, though, everyone was happy in the end.

"I'm so happy, Grandpa!"

"Are you people listening to me?"

LIVING NEWSPAPER

This year the fall production featured a Living Newspaper piece. The cast had to create and perform a series of skits, based on actual facts and events, about the homeless in America. It included scenes about a battered woman, a man being set on fire and the difficulty of trying to set up a homeless shelter. In addition to being covered in the News-Gazette, the cast was asked to make a special second performance at Parkland Community College.

JANET

Janet, this year's student production, was a romantic comedy written by senior Andrew Phillips and directed by Andrew and senior Kate Depew. In it, one was able to observe insanity of the mind from two perspectives.

THE RUSSIANS

In November, 12 Soviet students and two teachers came to Champaign-Urbana. They were part of an exchange involving Uni and their school, The Physical-Technical Institute of Leningrad, U.S.S.R. After a week in Washington, D.C., they came to Champaign-Urbana, attended Uni, and visited Chicago, Springfield, the Amish countryside, and tourist spots all over Champaign County. They had a great time and enjoyed experiencing life in America firsthand.

Sports

Hard work, determination and teamwork brought success to all the sports teams at Uni, as natural talent truly abounded. Subbies competed for the first time this year in the IESA, getting to see tough competition that will help them in future seasons.

Both cross-country teams saw tremendous improvements, as Josh Folk finished ninth in the state meet and the girls' team finished fourth overall.

The soccer team exceeded many expectations after losing so many seniors. And, of course, what an awesome two-day regional game at Charleston!

The girls' swim team grew in size and talent. With so many young, new people, the swim team is guaranteed future success.

The girls' basketball team improved greatly and earned the respect of all who watched. With the perseverance on the team, next year is anxiously awaited.

The boys' basketball team earned a trophy in a tournament and were named WLRW's team of the week: great accomplishments for a lot of hard work.

After last year's successful track season, both the boys' and girls' teams saw even bigger teams and even more talent and success.

With great athletes and continued hard work, Uni's athletic programs are becoming well-known and widely respected.

SOCCER

The 1990 Uni soccer team, led by captains Avi Porton and Brian Frizzell, played better than expected this year, to the delight of fans. Avi broke the school scoring record and goalie Matt Asher broke the Uni record for shut-outs as the team finished 8-8-2. The season came to a heartbreaking end in a two-day regional game as Charleston defeated the Illineks with penalty kicks in "the greatest game in Uni High history."

SWIMMING

Al led the girls' swim team to yet another season of early morning practices, green peppers, and chowing down after away meets. The season was highlighted by a victory over archrival Olympia, selling the Oskee-Wow-Wow tapes, an exciting dual meet vs. Urbana that came down to the last race, and Andrea coming "oh so close" in qualifying for state. Although a strong group of seniors are leaving, prospects for next year look great.

GIRLS' CROSS-COUNTRY

The Uni girls' cross-country team got off to a somewhat slow start, but that quickly changed. The girls won the Amboy Invitational and carried that momentum into the Uni High Invitational, where they beat the top-ranked team in the state, St. Joe. The team was disappointed in its fourth place showing at sectionals, but they bounced back to a very respectable fourth place at state. With several returning letter winners, next year looks to be a promising one for the team.

BOYS' CROSS-COUNTRY

With a fairly young team, the Uni High boys' cross-country team showed great improvement and earned respect among their competitors this year. For the first time in Coach Bonnie Byers' career at Uni, the boys' team won trophies at major invitationals. The team advanced out of their regionals and finished the season at sectionals. Josh Folk, however, continued on to the state meet where he placed ninth.

Competing for the first time this year in the Illinois Elementary School Association, the subbie b-ball teams looked, as always, promising. The girls were coached by Yamini Bhagwat, Marsha Mohr and Lynne Peck, all former Uni High players. Rick Murphy again coached the boys with the help of Doug Jolly. Both teams showed improvement and had a good deal of fun. The girls' and boys' varsity teams will certainly welcome this talented group of players.

GIRLS' JV BASKETBALL

This year's girls' JV team accomplished great things, as the large number of people on the team truly helped. Vast improvements were made, and a highlight of the season was the victory over Urbana. Their 3-15 record does not indicate their improvements, dedication, and future contributions to the girls' basketball program.

BOYS' JV BASKETBALL

With the absence of Joel on Fridays and the early retirement of many star players, the boys' JV finished with a 4-14 record. However, they managed to romp Wapella and Danville First Baptist with their terrorizing press and everyone's shot-blocking ability. All the players improved as the season progressed by practicing on their Nintendo Gameboys.

Although this year's girls' varsity was somewhat inconsistent, the team's dedication and determination was evident as they improved greatly over the course of the the season. After suffering through a 1-5 start, the team played much better during the second half of the season to finish at 10-14, including a third place finish at the East Okaw Invitational. Even this is not indicative of the team's true talent, however, as half of their losses came by four or fewer points. Led by senior captains Allison Hightshoe and Sue Pleck, the team achieved satisfying victories over Oakland (REVENGE!), Blue Ridge, Jamaica and Fisher and crushed is Melvin-Sibley twice, in addition to nearly defeating St. Joseph-Ogden, one of the top teams in the area. Junior Amy Parker set a school record for rebounds in a game with 28. While the loss of four seniors will be difficult, the underclassmen gained valuable experience and will undoubtedly lead the team to greater heights.

BOYS' VARSITY BASKETBALL

Despite a slow start, the boys' varsity came back to win six out of their last eight games and bring home the consolation title from the East Okaw Tournament. Finishing with a 10-15 regular season record, the season was hightlghted by the amoeba defense, Brendan's dunks, Irish vs. Korean euchre teams, the addition of Dave "Flavor Flav" Kiddoo, and Derek's sensitivity.

UNIVERSITY H.S. LIBRARY

With what free time students had this year, they filled the various clubs and organizations at Uni which were as numerous and productive as ever. Old standards such as German Club, Science Society and Unique remained, accompanied by newer clubs like Hockey Club and Asian Club that proved they could survive the lunchtime rivalry. Money poured in for everyone during tummy-tempting noontime sales that filled the hallways with appetizing aromas. . . even yearbook got in on the action with Friday pizza sales. Other students struggled to fill their transcripts by hopping from club meeting to club meeting. Overall, the clubs proved to be productive, fun, and a way to spice up the daily life of the student.

Organizations

GARGOYLE

Despite a decrease in staff members by ten and a switch to seventh hour, Gargoyle prevailed for yet another year and continued to be the model by which journalistic standards are set. Editors Andrew and Heidi managed to get out a record !!13!! issues even though they were constantly having panic attacks over the broken, virus-infected Macintosh.

SFAC

SFAC, the student faculty advisory committee, dealt with various pressing issues concerning Uni. Some topics of discussion included, among others, the "surprise" winter party, the Persian Gulf Crisis and its effects on Uni, theft at Uni and teacher evaluations. SFAC continued to be an all-purpose, solve-it-all, bring-it-here committee.

EDITORS: Tysan Huang, SUE Pleck, Bridget O'Connor, Josh Hopkins and Tony Kim.

YEARBOOK

Yearbook, in its inaugural year as an independent study, attracted many students with the opportunity to help create this trip down memory lane and fill transcripts in the process. Under the fearless leadership of second-year editors Sue Pleck and Tysan Huang, the dedicated staff, armed only with quad-packs, croppers, grease pencils, white-out, computers and STICKERS, worked many a long hour at school, Sue's house and Tysan's house in order to bring you this literary masterpiece.

EXECUTIVE STUDENT COUNCIL

At the meetings Mr. Murphy decided to attend and Peter Nguyen didn't, Student Council, under the leadership of President Jamie Bennett, Vice-President Allison Hightshoe and Secretary/Treasurer Heidi van Es, dealt with many of Uni's problems. After the successful Howdy Hop and bug-infested Orientation Picnic, the Council started seminars to combat racism at Uni. With the addition of Ping-Pong Club, Hockey Club, and Irish Club, the Council struggled over the "yearbook situation," that "damned phone," and Dave Das's sexual harassment of Erin Reep — he gave her an unwarranted kiss. GASP — scandal!! Oh, what a scandalous Student Council year.

LOUNGE COMMITTEE

This year's lounge committee, overcoming such scandals as the disappearing stereo and spontaneously disintegrating cushions, helped to keep the lounge the center of student life at Uni. The addition of countless new pieces of furniture helped contribute to the tasteful decor. The committee led the school in the arts of vegetating and card playing.

SCIENCE SOCIETY

Led by David and Josh H., these wild and crazy science studs defended Uni's honor at JETS and Science Olympiad. They won numerous awards for building such things as clocks, musical instruments, and airplanes and for their knowledge of genetics, geology, physics and other sciences.

IRISH CLUB

Due to years of patience, planning and hard work by Brendan O'Sword, Derek O'Duhhh, Joe O'Monster, and DAVE, the Irish Club became a reality. These fine, upstanding boys recruited half the SENIOR class so that the beauty of being Irish could be shared with all. One meeting was held at Murphy's Pub, and the other was held outside in order to take the lovely photo you see below. Mr. Murphy, who did most of the drinking, was the beloved sponsor.

CHORUS

Chorus was awesome this year because Hoopeston, Stretch, Dizzy and "The Beard" joined. Along with Emily, Sue, Allison (can you guess who wrote this?), and the rest of the seniors — oops, we mean chorus — we sang, traveled to Indy and performed for thousands (well, maybe closer to one hundred) of adoring fans.

ORCHESTRA

Under Mr. Murphy's lively leadership, this year's wonderful winds, stupendous strings, bold brass and delightful drums performed concerts and filled the attic with hauntingly beautiful melodies.

With smiling faces and nodding heads, the madrigals delighted their audiences once again. Despite rehearsing only once a week, the singers performed superbly at several concerts and are planning a trip to New York this summer.

JAPANESE CLUB

New to Uni this year, the Japanese Club started with grand plans. The group, under the leadership of Mike Bekiares and David Watanabe, held meetings to learn more about Japanese culture, language, and traditions. Along with slides and guests, teacher Chris Thompson made the meetings fun for all.

GERMAN CLUB

Did you see all the Schwarzwalderkirschtorte — Black Forest Cherry Cakes — around Uni? Thanks to German Club all of Uni was able to get a "taste" of Germany here in Champaign-Urbana. The German Club sponsored contests, played games, and corresponded with German pen-pals.

H.I.S.S.

UNIVERSITY H.S. LIBRARY

The Historical Simulation Society, sponsored by Mr. Butler, met Tuesdays and sometimes on Fridays after school to play games simulating various eras in history. Not only did the members have a lot of fun, but they were instrumental in developing and testing the games.

CHESS

Chess Club, under the auspices of the fabulous Mr. B, met every Tuesday and Thursday during lunch and prepared themselves for tournament play. Competing in the East Central Illinois Chess League, the young team had yet another successful campaign.

FRENCH CLUB

This was French Club's second year as an official organization. Under President Zivar Baker and sponsor Severine Arlabosse, club members held bake sales, initiated a letter and souvenir exchange with a school in France, and had Josh Folk talk about the Ivory Coast.

RUSSIAN CLUB

Russian Club was headed by three presidents, Jillanna Mercer, Yulun Yang and Kimberely Hendrickson, and sponsored by Dianne Loyet. The club members engaged in a variety of activities, including watching movies, playing Russian Monopoly, listening attentively to guest speakers, and writing to pen pals.

AGORA DAYS COMMITTEE

The Agora Days Committee met every week to organize and put together the famous week of student and adult self-taught classes. Students could learn how to be a physician or perfect the art of Scandanavian cooking.

WRITERS' GUILD

Writers' Guild was a new club this year founded by Eric Phillips. The group met once a week to share and receive comments and criticism on their work which ranged from artwork to novels.

LATIN CLUB

Latin Club was once again sponsored by Frances Newman. In it, Latin scholars were able to learn more and enjoy the culture of ancient Rome through games and trips to Chicago's Art Institute.

HOCKEY CLUB

Under the fearless leadership of Dave Kiddoo, Martin Reznek and Gumby, the Hockey Club filled many a transcript. Due to certain bureaucratic rules, no jerseys were made. However, there was much taunting at U of I games, and, more importantly, they came, they saw, they threw some cheese.

STUDENTS FOR A BETTER WORLD

This year, S4BW was first under the leadership of Jamie and Kate, but was taken over by Mo and Cathy around the middle of the year. With the help of Ms. Kaplan, the club organized parties for senior citizens, cooked meals for Catholic Worker House, participated in the Big Brother/Big Sister program, and held the second annual Captain Tidy day.

Not pictured: Caty Steigmann, Shelby White and Brendan DeTemple.

TENNIS CLUB

This year's Tennis Club consisted of members from various classes and was headed by Peter and Caty. The future Davis Cup team perfected their skills on the U of I clay courts across from Kenney and fun was had by all.

ASIAN CLUB

Faculty

The members of the faculty at Uni were certainly more than just our teachers and authority figures — they were our friends, counseling us in times of need and frustration, supporting us in our extracurricular activities and side interests and always willing to help. And, of course, the faculty kept on top of the gossip heap and proceeded to even update some of the student body on the latest juicy tidbits of information.

Several new teachers arrived — including Ms. Fuller, Ms. Lu, Mr. Thompson, Ms. Quackenbush and Ms. Akoyunoglou — and quickly learned the ways of Uni. Along with the veteran teachers, they will undoubtedly contribute to the special relationship with the faculty that Uni students have always enjoyed.

ADMINISTRATION/COUNSELING

Joel Crames, Assistant Director, made his daily rounds about the school to make sure everything was peachy keen.

Steve Epperson, sporting the clean shaven look this year, was the Acting Director and did a great job supporting the school.

Uni's financial affairs remained in terrific shape, thanks to Randy Musselman.

Cathy Eads, Uni's secretary, kept everything in order and made sure the hallways remained calm.

Lori Baker was the secretary for the counseling office. She helped us all through trying times.

Jeff Smith was the counselor for the subbies and juniors. He aided in freak schedule changes and the misery of practice standardized tests.

Joan Levy was the college consultant. She made the seniors sing, dance and do acrobatics before she sent their recommendations.

ENGLISH

The senior class, uh, welcomed back Adele Suslick as the fearless leader of debates, The Bear and The Woman Warrior after a year with the sophomores and subbies.

Dorothy Fuller took the challenge of teaching the sophomores, and, amidst flying objects, taught yet another class how to write creatively.

Rosemary Laughlin introduced the subbies to grammar, and just when the juniors thought they knew everything about English, Dr. Laughlin showed them — a dictionary.

Jennifer Van Duzen Burns (JVDB), when not too busy in her Journalism class and teaching the freshmen, scurried around the hall with bags on her arms and a smile on her face.

Audrey Wells, although she was mistaken for a Hershey's Kiss around Halloween, taught the subbies English, advocated socialism, and sponsored the student production.

FINE ARTS

The members of this year's wonderful Fine Arts Department were: Karen Hellyer, who taught the applied arts classes; Laura Reneau, who directed many of the productions and taught Drama class, and Richard Murphy, who taught Chorus, Orchestra, Madrigals and Music Theory.

LIBRARY

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Michelle Quackenbush loved her Russian II class so much that she chose to be pictured with them.

After many years of teaching German IV and feeding German I, II and III, Marcia Bernhard is leaving Uni, and we'll miss her very much.

Alicia Henry, who is also departing, taught German I, II and III this year. Her students will be at a loss without her.

Frances Newman taught all sections of Latin. She took her fourth-year students on a voyage to ancient Greece with the Aeneid and had to tell the third- and fourth-year students that they couldn't go to Rome because of the war.

Aleka Akoyunoglou was new to Uni this year. She taught eager Russian IV students slanderous vocab words about marriage and divorce.

Chris Thompson came to Uni this year and brought with him a new Japanese program in which he taught Japanese I.

Alain Fresco was again at Uni this year pounding the subjunctive into the minds of all French IV students.

MATH

Deborah Woods taught Geometry and Calc I and told all about her knife and gun collection.

Carol Castellon taught Algebra I, served Thanksgiving Pizza to her former Geometry students, and was simply delightful.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Although Bonnie Byers taught fitness and coached the cross-country and track teams, she still pumps iron in order to keep fit.

Al Ledgin coached girls' swimming and made sure that everyone learned the fundamentals of pickleball.

Tom Scott coached boys' varsity basketball, taught some Uni students how to drive, and also managed to teach sports and fitness.

Once again, Sally Walker held the P.E. department together while coaching girls' varsity basketball and teaching fitness.

MAINTENANCE

SOCIAL STUDIES

"Barbie" Wysocki, when not busy with Ken, found time to teach a bit of geography to her students while influencing them to be a good citizen and volunteer.

Even though they were busy deciphering what she was saying, Philippa Kaplan's subbie and sophomore geography students managed to learn quite a bit.

Though absorbed in her maps, Joanne Wheeler found time to be a friend as well as a teacher to her Western Civ and U.S. History students — roaming the halls, finding our prom dates and sometimes even grading our tests.

SCIENCE

David Stone taught beginning and advanced biology this year and learned to be a father for his new son, Ethan.

New to Uni this year, Jean Lu taught the wonders of science to subbies.

Patricia Morris, department head, kept busy teaching one section of subbie science.

David Bergandine taught beginning and advanced chemistry and had the honor of being the only man in school to wear knickers and argyle socks.

UNIVERSITY H.S. LIBRARY

Another year, another class. . . The underclassmen did a great job of keeping busy and keeping out of people's hair. The subbies were initiated in the usual ways — garbage can dumping, being banned from the lounge, learning, thinking (?) and studying, and, of course, Interrelated Arts and Bonnie's health class. The freshmen mastered the arts of sponsoring dances and petitioning out of fitness. The sophomores, despite the excitement of chemistry and geography, attempted to remain laid back to prepare for the trials and tribulations of junior year. The juniors survived "hell year" by working late nights and early mornings in anticipation of learning the art of seniority. Overall, the underclassmen survived another underclass year as everyone moved one year closer to being a SENIOR!

SENIOR LAST WILL

I, Stephanie Alsberg, leave the girls' swim team a green pepper for their first swim meet next fall. To the girls' JV basketball team, I give my best wishes for a great season next year and good luck on playing varsity. To Heidi van Es, I leave a travel size bottle of shampoo, and to my sister Jenny, I leave my insanity.

I, Robby Auler, hereby do leave to Adam Wengert a gigantic nightstick and ten to twelve large pizzas, to Erica Joncich scissors, to Jason Wolf her hair, to Brian Frizzell Sue Pleck's musical taste which he desperately needs, to Cyndi Liebovich John Moore, to Jessica Pursley a smile which she can use, to Yvette fame, fortune and an awesome solo career, to Jai a cross and a Bible, to Dan tact, to Martin a "Son!" greeting and my everlasting friendship, and to Jenny Auler I leave confidence to do her best, which is pretty damn good indeed.

I, Zivar Baker, will the stage crew to Mindy and Lesley, health and love to everyone, and luck and happiness to Nadine and Chris.

I, Jamie Bennett, being of sound mind and body (sha-right), do hereby pen my senior will. I leave Carl Crawford to anyone who has to do a dance at Uni; the knowledge that "men are pigs" to all future Social Advocates; memories of Konstansia Vintrovna to Amy, Holly, Melinda, Bahareh and Heidi; dinner at the Olive Garden to Sally; lunch at Taco Bell to Coach Scott; to Rachel I leave "pax"; Yvette gets Linda Dano to keep her company; and I don't leave Dr. Laughlin to anyone because I'd like to take her with me.

I, Dezera Davis, leave Cyndi my sense of humor, a Snickers bar, my fat cheeks (so John will have something to grab on to), and Randy (both of them). To Shelby and Allison H. I leave my ripe juicy melons to enhance their social life (smile), to Jyana I leave a major power stud — no, two, and I hope they fit (smile), to Yvette C. I leave lots of love and plenty of good pain, to Michelle G. I leave lots of HOT!!! weekends, those books I read and the C.S. trip, to Erin R. and Linda S. I leave a sixteen foot long, pulsating. . .heart, Longarm and of course a pair of brown corduroy pants (smile), to Stephanie T. I leave a great big smile and a real good joke, and to Mo I leave a big hug and a good insult in math class. I luv you MO!! To Christie C. I leave a nice green outfit, to Kim and Heidi I leave that big power stud they always saw when I wasn't around, to Mindy F. I leave my godliness, and to all my teachers I leave lots of smiles, hugs and thanks for all the support. And a special thanks to Sally for giving a me a great appreciation for fitness!!

I, Derek Flynn, leave Jon Ott a fart in his general direction, Brian Frizzell a mirror and a color chart so he can figure out what race he is, Martin's crotch to Adam Wengert, my hair to Jessica Nolen, Joel Crames some elevator shoes, my gardening tools to next year's English class, Caty Steigmann breadsticks and a map of Champaign-Urbana, Kim Nelson a ride on the boys' basketball team bus, all of the school's girls some real men, Ben Goldsteen a teacher's salary because he taught our class more than many teachers, and my sister a hug and some confidence.

I, Joshua Folk, leave to the track team morning practice and the distance crew my uncoordination, to Bonnie Dave and blueberry muffins, to Dave 100 Ho-Ho's, to Chad his hat, and to Mark and all of Uni I leave thanks for three great years here.

I, David Gerlach, hereby do bequeath to Heine and Mark a warm bench, to Steve Hilberg somebody to talk to on the bus, to Mike Bekiares some fluorescent pudding, to the juniors Science Society, and to anybody who wants them I leave my conservative views.

I, Allison Hightshoe, leave to Jay, Caty, Kim, Mo and Amy Fogel my sister, to Yvette a long necked ketchup bottle, to Jill a full-bodied spandex suit, to Amy Parker my SPORTSBRA, to Erin Grant a "I Think I Can Choo Choo Book," to Cyndi John Moore and a super support bra, to Andrea some digestive juices, to Heidi the yearbook debt and my undying respect, to Brian all the supreme amount of studliness, and to Mrs. Laughlin and Joel Crames I leave all my love and respect.

I, Josh Hopkins, being of sound mind and. . . Well, anyway, I leave Space Society and a smaller backpack to Steve Hilberg, to Hosun Science Olympiad and dreams of Nationals, to Phil an extra smile in case he runs out and my incredible ability at JETS Graphics, my brother to the rest of the school in the hope that they can deal with him, a spare planet to Ms. Asbell-Clarke, the product of thousands of hours of hard labor to Mr. B, a clean mind to David W., and I would leave some luck to the cross-country and track teams, but they won't need it.

I, Emily Hsui, leave my KEDS, my squeal, and my eternal friendship to Che-Wei, a hug to Brian, a drumset and a night out with the hippo to Dana, my whine to Kelly, a smile and many study sessions to Joyce, a huge telephone bill to Aaron Holland, a smile to Eddie, my sister to Amy Wen, a pinch on the cheeks to both Austin and Gene, a French braid to Christie, and my bedroom, lots of love and all the happiness to my little sister, Jenny. Finally, to everyone, lots of luck.

I, Tysan, leave gravitational attraction to Brian F, some "skin" to Ho, Chadly, and Jeff S, my friendship, respect, and admiration to Amy P, some Nehi punch, the waitress from Steak and Shake, and best wishes in everything to Jess P (Purdle!) and Tracy, my confidence in Deebs R cause I know she's awesome, $10,000 worth of Champaign Surplus insignias to Jillanna, tons and TONS of unexpressable thanks and a promise to keep in touch to Mark Poremba, and lots of love, luck and laughter to Mrs. Laughlin, Jaybird S, Sonia, Jason, Erga, and most importantly my best buddy Shra, Allison, Shelb and Sue (even if they are all graduating!) along with everybody else at Uni!

I, Sang Hwang, leave Kim N. extra sets of house keys to give out to everyone, Caty S. some truth to her stories, Jason W. some hair to his Mr. Potato Head. And I'm outta here!!! See ya!!!

I, Andrea Jackson, leave lots of love and luck to Jenny K., a Pepsi and meow to Holly, lane 6 to Heidi, green peppers and Hershey's kisses to the swim team, some mosquitoes to Heather, and decapitated gummy bears and Skor bars to Suzi. To "Teenage Mutant Ninja" Kian I leave some virgins and my diary. To Jon Ott I leave a knife through his heart. To Nellie I leave Ryan, some marshmallows and a golf club, and to Jenny A. I leave some thunder jets, lots of smiles and a big hug.

I, Emily Kerlin, hereby will Yvette my deep and unending love for Uni, along with my appreciation for its subtle academic challenge and wonderous encouragement of personal growth; for Dana, many more Fridays of German euphoria; for Mrs. Wheeler, many thanks for letting me be a part of U.S. History on January 26; and finally, for Seth, my long-lost brother, I will many more school nights of sailing off into the sunset. I will you my room and lots of love, Sethers. Auf Wiedersehen, Uni!!!

I, Dave Kiddoo, will graduate, be successful, and never have to talk to you again.

I, Steve Kim, in supreme mind and fine body hereby leave everything I own to Joe Park, Hosun, and Dennis, and my Jordan-like ability to Jason Rogers.

I, Tony Kim, leave the legacy of the STDs and his brother Paul's DGC to my coz, Tommy, a gold Tarot deck to Noah, a big button that sez: "I'm a pozer" to Sang, a lung repair kit to Derek, and to Nate, my bestest buddy, I leave the fry machine at the back of Taco John's.

I, Karen Lamb, leave Mindy a wave, Holly a Pepsi, Jenny A. the smile that I couldn't give her at the Christmas Dance and a big hug, Arah memories of Jumping Jacks, Zipporah a clean mind, Jyana some songs for the bus and a gorgeous guy, Eman and Christie Prairie Farm, Al a new, clean car, and the swim team lots of luck and green peppers.

I, Noah Levin, leave an eyebrow pencil to Jannie, a big hello to Erga, a bottle of ketchup and a rather large mess to Heidi, some Irish banjo music to Caty, my serious attitude toward the classics to Arah, a black outfit to my archnemesis Dave Das, to Yvette my confidence in what her future will bring, and to Ben I leave the Mafia, the International Oil Companies, and the reminder not to forget about me when the world bows down in worship to him.

I, Marsha Magnus, leave to Mr. Epperson a noise-free first and second floor, to Mr. Pat a classroom of concious students, to Isobel Stasheff the theater and a life of "love" and happiness, to Robert Parker another difficult year of Russian, to Nicole J twenty pounds, and to Melanie (luscious) a thousand new creative poems, stories, and drawings. To Corey I leave Jane, and to Corey and David I leave all subfreshmen girls. Finally, to all of Uni High I leave continued high standards of learning and open lockers.

I, Mimi Marty, leave an escapade to Erga, a smile to Dennis, a collie-training book to Sameer, a flower to Jenny K., lots of money to the Unique staff, and the best of luck to everyone.

I, Robin Mittenthal, leave Dennis my weapons, many many roaches to Uni's halls, thanks to all of my teachers for helping me (or trying), and best wishes/thanks to all those short people who will try to live on at Uni once I'm gone.

I, Joe Monahan, being of sound mind and body, will Ben Goldsteen the ultimate wave and a mondoboard to ride it because sometimes you just know you're better, Sally my everlasting love, my brother if he decides to come and a Notre Dame sweatshirt, Caty Eugenia F. and a gun, Kim a tall blonde stranger, Jenny a smile, Yvette the perfect man, Erica and Rachel a ride home, Barb and Cathy a busy phone line and my room, Heidi a dark Mac room, Dennis a dark alley and a big gun, and Eddie a crew cut.

I, John Moore, do in fact leave Kelly a Michigan hat and my flannel shirt. To my sister, Melissa, I leave my locker and some decent musical taste. To Mo, I leave one of my most perplexing dreams ever and one last handshake. To Cyndi, I wish her the best of luck, and to anyone who wants it, I leave my love of fishing.

I, Robin Morgan, leave a quiet classroom to Pat (since I won't be there), a slap in the face to Murph, and some hairy legs to Sally, since she will never have any. To Erga and Andrea, I leave TRAUMA, and to Rachel Lebenson a burrito as big as her head. To Joyce, I leave some gorgeous London guys and the memory of Joe singing along to Air Supply on the radio. To my baby brother Dylan, I leave Larry, Darryl and Darryl, and last (but definitely not least), I leave all my sisterly love to Yvette, plus an eggy-wegg, a hosty-wost, and a full wee-fund.

I, Peter Nguyen, leave an aardvark and a "D"ipple to Joyce, a lesson in etiquette to Ho, Kermit the green Vietnamese frog to Rachel, my foot to Eddie since he'll know what to do with it, my hair to Amy F to do whatever she wants, and to Brian a mass of Depends undergarments so he'll stay in class longer than five minutes and also my copy of GQ. I give a driver's license to Jason the scrounge, my crushing overhead smash to David K, and a hot night of sex to Yvette. To my brother, Thomas, I leave a real earring and all my unspoken love.

I, Bridget O'Connor, leave a bottle of Koala Springs Mineral Water, a broccoli pizza, and my love of track to Nadine, a six-pack of Dr. Pepper and a box of pizza rolls to Linda, lots of luck to Uni's athletic teams, something better to do with his free time than harrass his friends' older siblings to Chris Bear, my love and good luck to my brother, my undying loyalty and some great memories to my friends, my respect to Jillanna and anyone else who knows how to keep their priorities straight, the courage to keep being herself to Melanie, and, finally, much deserved happiness and gratitude to Erica.

I, Han Paik, being of sound mind and body, leave Mr. Murphy the basses, Eddie a subbie, Joyce Mr. Right, Jenny lots of hugs, Tze-John a Mozart Concerto, Arah a Magic Flute, Heidi some tap shoes, and Yvette a B-movie. I leave Ben all glory and praise, Pat some Freedom Rock, Rachel Rob Lowe and walks around school, and Andrea some funky earrings. I leave Sally the flag, Coach some pumps, and deodorant to Kate's brother Drake. I leave Brian (and posse) Nate's rhythm and dancing moves, Hosun some donuts, and Kelly wool socks, mice and Mr. Right. I leave all my favorite teachers my younger brother, and to my brother Gene my ability to stay out of trouble. I leave a stall open for Russell and two tickets to South America. I leave Jenny H. hormones and Amy Wen Mr. Right. I leave Koreans power and peace and love too.

I, Veerle Peshkin, leave my time-travel machine to future drop-outs (true journey is return), a D-cup bra, a condom, a joint and planet strange to Melanie, a kiss, some Kentucky Fried Chicken dipping batter (for his hair) and a BIG hug to my optimistic philosophizing Brother Jon Ott, an invincible bow to Barbie (who secretly enjoyed it all along), my two favorite fingers to Sharad, love to the real teachers (they know who they are), and peace to a world which desperately needs it.

I, Andrew Phillips, senior that I am, leave hastily and with a limp.

I, Susan Pleck, leave many thanks to my teachers, especially Mr. B, Mrs. Wheeler, Ms. Wells, Barbie, Karen, Pat and Sally, lots of luck and confidence and the success they deserve to the basketball team, lots of organization, perseverance, caffeine and stickers to future yearbook editors, a pop can, another book of proverbs and Mojgone to Sally, a large cup of coffee and a clenched fist to Murph, a lovely rendition of "Kumbaya" to Amy and Cyndi, a sandwich to Andrea, eternal goofiness to Mojgone, some gorgeous bruises to Cyndi, my serenity on the court and my title of Rubber Woman to Erin, my moves to Amy Fogel, an evil look to Yvette, my ability to remember the names of everyone in the school to Heidi and Kim, my locker art to Holly, my George Bush T-shirt to Jyana, and lastly my "realism" and sincere admiration and best wishes to Amy Parker.

I, Avi Porton, leave the soccer team luck and a few words of advice: Kick Charleston's butt. I leave Kelly some company on the bus, to Dana a binder full of insults, to Che-Wei a pillow, to Amy and Joyce their true feelings for each other, to Jyana the knowledge that I am going to college, and to Aaron Holland a life. And finally to the rest of Uni: take those knives out of each other's back and start over.

I, Deborah Reingold, leave the legacy of Orthodox Judaism at Uni to Joel and Erga, thanks to all who have made Uni a good experience for me, my little sister to everyone who will be here next year, and best wishes to anybody who needs them.

I, Martin, leave to Brian a horny black lab, to Jason Avi's twinkie, to Che-Wei caffeine, to Erica the obvious — a penguin, to the posse something to do without Derek, to the SAS group owange fweeze, to Adam my crotch, to Mo someone else to yell your name in an obnoxious pitch, to Deborah-Anna another sibling to mother, to Eddie a pitbull with a serious case of hemorrhoids, to Judy a muzzle, and to Jon Ott I respectfully leave. . . NOT! I wish to Emily a new unused chicken, to Dan the Lambo we've dreamed of, to Tysan a nicer CC coach at Vassar, and to Robby a gun to shoot anyone going off on his awesome music. Finally, I wish all the seniors the success they deserve.

I, Dan Shunk, leave a few people a few things. To Brian Frizzell, a reminder that he is still white. To Wolfy. . . never mind, he's already got it. To Adam, all the studliness he can use for track. To Chris Kelly, a well-needed sense of humor. To Rachel and Erica, I will give all the friendship they can ask for. To Jenny, Jamey and Deborah (the closest anyone has come to being my little sisters and brother) I leave all the confidence they need. To my best friends Jai, Rob, Martin, Chris, Bridget and Shannon M., I leave anything they could ask for. But most importantly, to my brother Don, I leave all the love a brother could ask for and the knowledge that he is the greatest person ever.

I, Nate Stevens, being of sane and rational mind, leave the following: to my #1 Homie Jason I leave a lifetime supply of polka dot clothing so that he can be totally polkadelic now that we are in the Bone Age, as well as a Georgia Tech basketball jersey with #10 on it. To Tracy I leave remembrance of a tender, caring summer spent together. To Dave Das I leave a lifetime supply of toilet paper and a gun so that he can eat with his left hand in India. To Joel I leave some raw meat, and to Heather I leave Joel. To Jan I leave some milk and cookies, to the cross-country team some Sno-Cones, to Amy Fogel a loaded deck of cards, and finally to Erga I leave a copy of the book Merlin by Stephen R. Lawhead and a crystal ball to see the bright future.

I, Shira Wachtel, leave Karl Marx and all of my bras to Cyndi, a "Mo-ja-go-nee" to Mo, a shitload of tact, the hood and my "pumped and firm" father to Jay, a hair tousle to Amy F, my shoulder and a smile to Jillanna, half the national anthem to Erin G, a million bead necklaces, all my respect and a pen (for autographs) to Yvette, Finees to Erica, Brett, MOVFTY and thanks for help on Gargoyle to Heidi, my grey hair to baldie (just kidding, Murphy), tons of dry-erase pens to Sally, best of luck to everyone at Uni, and my everlasting love and thanks to "de Senior Girls." You guys are the best friends anyone could ever have. I couldn't have made it through Uni without you.

I, Michael Wei, leave my car and my English expertise to Ben, a comic book and a Big Boy burger to Dennis, a truckload of No-Doz to next year's Calc II and Advanced Chem classes, all of my overdue notices to the library, three rawhide whips to Bonnie, Mark and Chad (to replace the ones they wore out), best of luck to the track team, and my deepest gratitude to all of the Uni teachers and staff.

I, Shelby, leave to Leeney a box of shells and a cruise around the shit pile, to Mo a head full of dreadlocks, to Erin R. Brad and Joie (go get 'em), to Caty Billy Idol's fabulous inflatable blue woman, to Kim a cow's patty, to Cyndi John, and Jay, dear sweet Jay (can you give me a ride to guitar?) How could I have survived without you? I only have memories to leave you so don't YOU forget about ME. And to Bridget, Allison, Shira and Tysan, I wish you all many more awesome times like the ones we've had. Thanks for being my best friends.

I, Susan Wieckowska, leave a cup of tea to Izzi, an air mattress to Anna Neatrour, Espresso and everyone in it to Holly, lots and lots of gummi bears and goldfish to Suzie, some new jokes to Dennis, Hardee's biscuits to Jason Butler, and a band-aid to Jon Ott (so he doesn't drip blood on people's sleeping bags) and a white rose (for purity), the hopes of finally getting a horse together to Eman, the 500- and 200-yard freestyle to Jenny H., and a lifetime supply of green peppers to the swim team. And lastly, to Mrs Laughlin lots of smiles, the L.M. Montgomery books and tons of thanks!

1991 Uni High Supplement

The 1991 supplement is dedicated in the memory of Reverend Tom Jolly. Reverend Jolly was a beloved member of the Uni community. As students, we knew Reverend Jolly in many different ways. To some, he was an avid Uni sports fan. He was always at some sporting event, cheering us on. Even after the losses, he was quick with a word of encouragement, looking forward to the next competition. Others knew him as a participant, acting as the starter at the Uni track meets. The school will always remember and appreciate the time he gave, serving on various committees, helping to make Uni a better place. And, of course, Reverend Tom Jolly will forever be remembered as a tremendous friend. His encouraging and influential voice will continue to be heard for many years to come.

X-WEEK

X-Week raised many questions during the '90-'91 school year. Many students, parents, and teachers felt that the Servant Sale was an inappropriate activity for X-Week. Student Council examined the success of X-Week in recent years and determined that the week of fundraising would be seriously revamped in the upcoming year due to a decline in money raised and a lack of school-wide participation. The money raised from the fund drive was given to the Champaign Dropoff Center.

UNI 5-K

Looks like they ran REAL hard, huh?

SUBBIE TRACK AND FIELD

What a year for the Subbies in track and field. The three subbie boys and seven girls made up a team which demanded respect. Allison Cobb threw shot while Lindsey Schmidt, Amanda Isaacson, Erin Snyder, and Cindy Wang made up the awesome 800M relay. Both Erin (1 mile) and Cindy (100, 200, Long Jump) qualified for state. Future Uni High Track teams are looking forward to the addition of these young faces.

Boys Track

Boys Track, 1991, had a successful campaign, led by captains Joshua Folk and Josh Hopkins. With a fairly large team, there were always enough people for relays and a person in most events. Everybody improved and, yes, endured the early morning Armory practices.

Girls Track

A great 2nd place finish at the State meet topped off this girls track team-effort finish of the season. With the losses of seniors Bridget O'Connor and Tysan Huang, next year will be tough but the team looks to be equally as strong with numerous returners and added depth all around. All seven of those qualifying for State received All-State honors (placing in the top eight in the finals), and as mentioned before, five of those will be back next year along with several freshmen prospects.

Spring Productions

Erica contemplates and Joe tries to unpop his ears.

The Spring Drama Season provided Uni with a wide array of productions and entertainment. Laura Reneau directed the school spring musical, "Shakespeare's Humours." This unique production combined Shakespearean drama, comedy, and a touch of music. Yvette Cataneo and Noah Levin led the X-Week Big Show. There were humerous skits leaving the audience rolling in the aisles and talent showcases sending chills up the spine. It was a terrific spring season for the drama department.

Prom 1991

"A Night of Romance" could describe Prom 1991, but this year's theme was "An Evening on the Town." Everyone looked smashing as the food, drink, and exciting decorations were enjoyed by all. "The juniors did a really great job this year organizing and pulling off the prom. What a class," remarked Heidi van Es. Let's hope next year's juniors do as great a job as the juniors of 1991.

DISORIENTATION PICNIC

Centennial Park was the site for the 1991 Disorientation Picnic. Everyone became thoroughly disoriented and still, amazingly enough, had fun. The gourmet cuisine included hot dogs, chips and soda. What a great Uni tradition!!

SENIOR HANDPRINTS

It's yearbook II from Sue and Thai,

And this past year we really did try,

To make it the very best it could be,

(I'd say we did well in all honesty)

Josh, Josh and Tony printed the shots,

And our awesome staff put 'em in all the right spots

We think it's damned cool,

Hope you do too,

Thanks for a kickin' past five years,

Best of luck to all,

Love,

Tysan and Sue

The rainbow. No, I'm not talking about our choices of cover colors, but rather the experience of being yearbook editor, for over the last two years I think I've gone through the entire spectrum of emotions and then some. It has often been difficult and frustrating, requiring much perseverance and countless hours of work — but hell, somebody has to do it. Seriously, though, while I won't pretend I've done a particularly good job, and many times I wondered why I ever got myself into this, the editorship certainly has its rewards, not the least of which are working with others to create the book from scratch and the sense of accomplishment when it's all over. If I had known what it was like to be an editor when I was offered the job, I can honestly say that I would have accepted then as well. I'm especially glad I got to be the editor of Uni's yearbook — I know I will always remember what Uni High has meant to me and all the wonderful people I have met here. Thanks to Karen, Barb, Cathy, Randy, Mr. Crames, Mrs. Jassim and everyone who supported yearbook in any way, and especially to Josh, Tony, Bridget and the staff for making it possible — but most of all I want to thank Tysan for her invaluable friendship, support and overall coolness. I can't imagine anyone better to have as co-editor. Goodbye and good luck, Sue.

What can I say? Writing this is kind of hard. . . it isn't just the end o another yearbook the way it was last year, it's the end of Uni for me. Th end of all the euchre games, the after school practices for Track an Cross-country, the Lounge, the crooked spire on the top of the buildin and all the other quirky things that make Uni the special school that is. I've really enjoyed working on yearbook. I'll admit there have bee times when the hassles have gotten the better of my somewhat ex plosive temper and as I was ranting and raving either to Josh Hopkin or under my breath I wanted to forget the whole thing. But if nothin else, I can thank yearbook for allowing me to get to know Sue who is on of the nicest, coolest, and most wonderful people I know. It's hard for m to say goodbye to all my friends and favorite teachers, and in a way, it just as hard to say goodbye to those people I see in the halls who I neve got a chance to really know — or who for one reason or another I wa stuck in a situation where it would have been impossible. Anyway, hope this yearbook is everything everybody dreamed it would be. . . an to everybody at Uni, thanks, I had a blast!

-Tysa

The obvious phrase to sum up another year of photography is that it has been a developing experience with a few negative aspects Being a photo editor has been a lot of work, but it's also been fun; people at Uni are very funny, especially when they don't mean to be It's always interesting watching people's reactions to a camera pointed in their direction.
Of course, even we couldn't do all this without some help. We'd like to thank all the photographers, especially Eman, Stephanie, Hosu and Josh, Ms. Hellyer for being here for us on too many Saturdays to count, the Gargoyle editors for always saying "thank you," and of course, Tysan and Sue for doing everything they do.
